START IN ROME...

Class excursion at the Coliseum

Classroom at John Felice Rome Center

During your first year, much of your focus will be on Loyola's Core Curriculum, which will help you build a strong liberal arts foundation infused with a commitment to responsible leadership. From there, you can explore the 80-plus majors available at Loyola.

The Rome Center is a close-knit community of faculty, peer mentors, and approximately 200 students. Class sizes seldom exceed 22 students and faculty lead weekend excursions to destinations like Pompeii, Tuscany, and Sicily. All courses are taught in English, except for Italian language courses.

Dining inside John Felice Rome Center

At Loyola's John Felice Rome Center (JFRC), you'll join 200 students from Europe and the U.S. This diverse community gathers for traditional Italian meals, cookouts, tours of the Eternal City's famous monuments, nights out at the opera, talent shows, and weekly student-faculty football (soccer) matches. Students also participate in discussions on faith, social justice, and humanitarian service with a host of dignitaries who regularly visit campus.

TAKE A LOOK IN PERSON

Tour campus, sit in on a class, meet faculty, and learn more about the Rome Start program. If you are interested, send an e-mail to romestart@LUC.edu so we can set up your personal visit today.

The Courtyard at John Felice Rome Center

We want you to feel right at home. And at the JFRC, you'll have all the necessary support to ensure a safe and successful experience. The campus spans five acres in the upper Balduina district of Monte Mario, Rome's highest hill.

Just a short bus ride from Vatican City, this neighborhood is home to diplomats, senators, judges, and other distinguished families. Rome Start students live on campus in their own wing of the residence hall, facilitating a sense of community among students.

Study space inside the Commons

As part of an exciting initiative, Insieme per il Futuro (Together for the Future), the JFRC is being infused with new and renovated facilities. The new Information Commons at the JFRC is one of the most technologically advanced libraries in Rome and houses one of the largest collection of English language books in the city. Solar panels have been installed to help reduce our energy usage by 20 percent. It's all part of ongoing investment in you.

FINISH IN CHICAGO

Loyola's Water Tower Campus, along world-famous Michigan Avenue

Service opportunities for students

Reputation. Ranking. Real-world learning. That's the Loyola way. In Rome, you'll have access to numerous internships your first year of study. Students have completed internships at a number of high-profile organizations, including the Italian Senate and the Capitoline Museums. Once in Chicago, you'll have remarkable access to numerous internships and networking opportunities.

The Center for Experiential Learning will ensure you get a taste of the professional world while also engaging you in community service—an integral part of Loyola's mission. The Loyola Undergraduate Research Opportunities Program also will help further your learning and research outside the classroom.
